LAURIER GOVERNMENT CRUSHINGLY DEFEATED

VOTERS DECLARE AGAINST RECIPROCITY WITH STATES

Seven Members of Sir Wilfrid's Cabinet Go Down to Defeat—Ontario Goes Almost Solid Against Proposed Trade Pact

With seven of the cabinet ministers reported swept to defeat, Premier Laurier's government failed at the polls yesterday. This afternoon the latest summaries give Conservatives 130 to the Liberals 87.

The ministers defeated were Fielding, Fusher, Sir Frederick Borden, Graham, Paterson, King and Templeman.

A bulletin received late this afternoon after much uncertainty gave returns from Halifax showing that R. L. Borden had been elected by 741 majority.

Montréal, Sept. 22.—Canada awakened to-day confronted by a startling new sun, developed from the fact that reciprocity with the United States had been rejected, that the Laurier government had been defeated and that R. L. Borden will shortly be called on to form a Conservative ministry.

That the changes enacted during the past 24 hours by the registration of the will of the electorate are radical is shown by overwhelming majorities whereby the voters turned down the agreement which Sir Wilfrid Laurier had made with the United States for the mutual removal of duties on food and other natural products, by the defeat of seven cabinet ministers, out of thirteen who went to the polls and by the political landslide which will retire from public life Sir Wilfrid Laurier, said to be one of the biggest figures in the British Empire.

Out of nine Canadian provinces only Quebec, Laurier's native place, came anywhere near remaining faithful to him—and Quebec did not do any better. Ontario, the greatest of the provinces dealt Laurier a terrible blow, going almost solidly against him and the same may be said also of Manitoba and British Columbia. Saskatchewan and Alberta, the great wheat-raising provinces, gave a mild support to the cause of reciprocity.

The magnitude of the landslide appears to have stunned the Liberals, who have held office for 15 consecutive years and who firmly believed that they were destined to remain in power for many years to come. On both sides sympathy is being expressed for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, his clean and gallant fight in behalf of reciprocity being recognized by Opposition as well as his supporters as one of the most notable campaigns ever undertaken in Canada. That his effects were not crowned with success is still a matter of amazement to many people in the Dominion. It is not unlikely that the departure of the present governor-general, Earl Grey, which was fixed for October 8, may now be deferred for a few days and if this is done, the new governor-general the Duke of Connaught, will also postpone the date of his sailing from England, as it is the invariable custom for the retiring and the incoming governor-general to pass each other on the ocean. Earl Grey is familiar with Canadian affairs and can more conveniently participate in the details of calling and installing a new government.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is in Quebec to-day. Mr. Borden is in Halifax. Both will leave shortly for Ottawa, Sir Wilfrid to close up the affairs of the government, and to tender his resignation as prime minister and Mr. Borden to accept call from governor-general to form a new ministry and to consult with party leaders as to the appointment of his advisors. Parliament is to be summoned as soon as the election writs are on and the usual formalities which follow an election are completed.

There is much curiosity as to the identity of men whom Mr. Borden will invite to portfolios under the new government. Public opinion is agreed that Hon. George E. Foster, a former Conservative minister of finance; Premier Hazen of New Brunswick and Robert Rogers, minister of public works for Manitoba, will secure places. As for the reciprocity agreement, it is not likely to be heard of again soon in the Canadian House. Any measure of this kind must be introduced from the government side, and it is not likely that Mr. Borden and his followers will make any move in the matter. There is considerable interest manifested in the view which the people of the United States will take of the overwhelming rejection of reciprocity. The editorial comments of the American press and the statements of prominent public men were read with great interest in all parts of Canada.

TORONTO COMMENTS ON RESULT OF ELECTION

Toronto, Sept. 22.—The Mail and Empire (Conservative) says to-day: "The Knox-Fielding pact has received its sequel. The menace to Canada's independence that has troubled our politics for the last eight months, has been dealt in a fashion that makes a man feel prouder than ever to be a fellow-citizen of the great majority who yesterday tore into tatters the covenant of treason. Not only is the evil spirit of continentalism exorcised, but the government is cast out. This is the end of the most infamous falsehood dealing that the ministry of a British Dominion was ever guilty of. To false dealing was added despotism such as the most autocratic government in the world would hardly have attempted."

The Globe (Liberal) says: "The government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier goes out of power on a great issue. Believing as it did, that the offer of the United States to exchange natural products with Canada on a duty-free basis would prove advantageous to both countries, the government risked its life on the issue on reciprocity and lost."

"The people of Ontario don't like their neighbors to the south. That is emphatically the decision of yesterday's election. Liberals in tens of thousands must have joined the Conservatives in the cities and counties to show their objections to having any truck and trade with the Yankees." "Other provinces gave a Laurier majority and larger markets, but by an overwhelming vote, Ontario has declared that she will have nothing to do with reciprocity. The campaign supporters of the Conservative party bubbled better than they knew when they appealed to the people of this province to save Canada from the Americans. They created a wave of feeling that was not observable on the surface, but that wave swept the voters from their political moorings in numbers."

"That the wave of anti-American sentiment was speedily subsided is entirely probable. It mounted too high, to last. But the drift will remain and until Ontario becomes less powerful than she will be in the passing period of the Borden administration, there will be no hope of better trade relations with the United States. The tariff wall will remain. The more ardent high protectionists may even seek to raise it still higher. If that is to be the policy of the victors, the reign of Mr. Borden will not be unchallenged. The west will not stand for an immoderate tariff and reaction will speedily follow any attempt to raise a barrier against imports as high as Haman's galloways.

"ON WITH THE DANCE; LET JOY BE UNCONFINED"

"It is a matter of very great regret that so many of the leaders of the Liberal party should be defeated. It will be some time before Mr. Borden can gather around him holders for his various departments who will measure up to them."

OFFER MAY REMAIN OPEN TO CANADA

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—"Liberals defeated," was the laconic report to the state department from Consul-General Bradley at Montreal, recording the official demise of the reciprocity movement.

No further official declaration is expected at the department, on the ground that the Canadian government naturally supposes that this government is familiar with the terms of the agreement, especially the condition that the proposed new and reduced duties shall not be effective until after Canadian ratification. The single exception was wood pulp and paper stock, which by special provision went into operation immediately on approval of the Act and is now beyond recall of the law of the land unless Congress should see fit to repeal the entire Reciprocity Act.

The opinion expressed at the state department was that no effort would be made to repeal the Reciprocity Act, and although the duties therein provided will not become effective, the act itself will be permitted to remain on the statute books constituting an ever-open door to Canada and a constant reminder of the recognition by the United States of the merits of the people with whom the United States desires reciprocity.

It was suggested to-day that the only chance for the continuance of reciprocity as an open question might be found in an attempt by Newfoundland to secure such a treaty of agreement with the United States. It has been known that the Newfoundlanders were only waiting the disposition of the pact between the United States and Canada to open negotiations with Washington for a reciprocity arrangement on their account, and state department officials said it had been difficult to keep them from pressing the matter while the Canadian agreement was pending. It is just possible that the Newfoundlanders may see their opportunity in the present situation and decide to renew overtures for an agreement on the lines of the Hay-Herbert treaty of 1912.

This treaty was made the subject of an unfavorable report by the senate committee on foreign relations, but it was held that it was not defeated on its merits, but went down only because it was submitted to the senate along with reciprocity treaties with France, Argentina and other countries negotiated by Secretary of State Kossuth, which were regarded as objectionable by the high-tariff advocates of that day. The Newfoundland treaty is still regarded by officials here as a model instrument providing for the admission into Newfoundland of many American materials and manufactured products and the enjoyment of free fishing and bait by Americans in return for a free market of Newfoundland fish in that country. If by any chance the attempt to make it effective should succeed, it was suggested in administration circles that Canada would thereby receive an object lesson on advantages of reciprocity that might have the effect of changing the Canadian policy recorded yesterday.

Those who have kept in touch with the course of reciprocity legislation in congress during the last two sessions predict an effort at the next session to accomplish through tariff legislation what was intended to be accomplished through reciprocity. This agreement was supported by Democratic congressmen on the ground that it provided lower tariff duties on articles imported to this country from the Dominion of Canada.

R. L. BORDEN'S VIEWS

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 22.—"The thanks of the country are due those strong Liberals who placed the great national issue above all consideration of party allegiance and whose untiring efforts contributed in a marked degree to the splendid result achieved," said R. L. Borden, Conservative leader and prospective premier to-day, in summing up yesterday's election.

Mr. Borden declined to discuss the probable make-up of the cabinet. He plans to go to Ottawa to-morrow.

FLURRY ON MARKETS

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 22.—The defeat of reciprocity in Canada made a jump on the floor of the chamber of commerce here to-day, and there was an excited rush to buy wheat, with few offerings. Prices jumped over four cents for both December and May. December opened on a range of 1½ with $1.08 as the top price.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 22.—Wheat jumped up three cents at the opening of the market here to-day, the sudden rise being directly attributed to the defeat of reciprocity in Canada. There was wild trading on the board of trade here this morning.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.—Flour prices advanced because of the defeat of reciprocity in Canada, 20 to 25 cents a barrel, on the Merchants' Exchange to-day, soon after the market opened. Millers were flooded by messages offering to buy what flour they had.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 22.—The price of wheat rose 4 cents at the opening of the market to-day, influenced by Canada's defeat of reciprocity.

TEN PERISH IN FIRE

Youngstown, O., Sept. 22.—Developments to-day indicate that nine or ten persons, all Slavs, were killed in a boarding house fire here early to-day. There were 24 roomers in the house and three died before the fire was extinguished. The fire started from a gas explosion.

STEAMERS WILL NOT BE WITHDRAWN

How Sound Shipping Men View the Result of the Election

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 22.—That the failure of Canada to accept the reciprocity agreement will not affect the steamship companies recently formed with a view to caring for the business which shipowners believed would be built up between the Sound and British Columbia, is the consensus of opinion among local shipping men who discussed the matter to-day. Some time ago the opinion was current that if reciprocity failed the steamships recently added to the Seattle-Victoria-Vancouver run would be withdrawn, but it now appears that there is sufficient business on the run to make it profitable, even for the additional lines. It is known to shipping men, however, that as a result of the failure of reciprocity, that two $250,000 steamship corporations which have been projected, will never materialize.

After the reciprocity bill passed congress several new vessels were introduced into the trade between Seattle and British Columbia, although the business at the time did not appear to warrant it. The operators believed that reciprocity would furnish sufficient business to support the vessels since Canadian oats, pulp and print paper would be shipped into this country and American grain would move northward in quantity. In the meantime, however, the steamship men have learned that there is considerable natural trade between the American and Canadian ports without the stimulus of reciprocity.

All those vessels on the run will therefore remain for the present. Preparations had been made among local steamship men for the formation of two steamship companies each capitalized at $500,000 and each of which intended to operate two vessels on the run. When it was learned to-day that reciprocity had failed this plan was abandoned. That the business between Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria is known to be big, all shipping men believe, but they are now of the opinion that without reciprocity, it will grow slowly instead of by leaps and bounds.

ENGINEER KILLED

Raymond, Wash., Sept. 22.—A J. Dingle, 35 years old, an engineer, employed by the Pacific and Eastern Railway Company was instantly killed late yesterday afternoon by striking his head against a bridge while leaning out of the cab of his engine. His body was picked up a few minutes later by the train crew.

Dingle worked for a number of years out of St. Paul, on the Chicago and Great Western, and for five years out of Missoula on the Northern Pacific, where he was killed by a bridge over a month ago.

SIX OPPOSITION IN THE PROVINCE

DUNCAN ROSS ELECTED AS THE ONLY LIBERAL

Disappointing Result of the Poll in Other British Columbia Ridings

The Conservative opposition succeeded in making a gain of one seat in British Columbia, Ralph Smith being defeated in Nanaimo. The five Conservative seats again will be represented by members of that party. Messrs. Barnard (Victoria), Taylor (New Westminster), Burrell (Yale-Cariboo), and Goodve (Kootenay), have been re-elected, and Ald. H. H. Stevens succeeds Geo. H. Cowan in the representation of Vancouver.

Duncan Ross, who formerly sat for Yale-Cariboo in the Liberal interest, has been elected in Comox-Atlin by a substantial majority, estimated at 192, with only five polls on the Skeena to be heard from. He got a small majority in the Vancouver Island polls and a majority of 171 in Prince Rupert. All the polls heard from on the Skeena are in his favor.

The figures in New Westminster are as follows:

J. D. Taylor (C.) 2,856
John Oliver (L.) 1,037

The Liberal candidate loses his deposit.

The Vancouver result was:

H. H. Stevens (C.) 6,133
J. H. Snicker (L.) 3,385
E. T. Kinsley (Soc.) 831

VICTORIA ELECTS BARNARD AGAIN

HAS A CLEAR MAJORITY OVER OTHER CANDIDATES

Conservative is Once More Returned to Represent This City in Parliament

In spite of the energy and enthusiasm shown by the Liberals of Victoria and the hard work of all the committees yesterday, the campaign of slander and misrepresentation proved effective and the result was the defeat of the Minister of Mines.

The vote polled was just 5,700, something over two-thirds of the vote on the list, there being very many absentees.

G. H. Barnard secured not only a plurality of 481 over Hon. Wm. Templeman but a majority of 190 over his two opponents.

The count was very expeditiously done and the final result was known a few minutes after six o'clock. The total figures were as follows:

G. H. Barnard 2,815
Hon. W. Templeman 2,334
Gordon Brown 291

NOW SUPPORTS HOME RULE

London, Sept. 22.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has announced his conversion to the policy of Home Rule for Ireland. He gives it as his opinion that a solid loyal Ireland is one unit which the Empire needs, pointing the success of Home Rule in Canada and South Africa as examples of the successful application of the system. He argues that there is no reason to believe that it would not be equally applicable in Ireland. Sir Arthur has twice been Conservative candidate for the Commons on policy against Home Rule.

GENERAL STRIKE CALLED

Dublin, Sept. 22.—The first fruits of the declaration last night of a general strike on the railroads of Ireland by the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants were not particularly promising from the standpoint of the union. Only about 30 of the local staff of the Great Northern railway responded to the call and the locomotive men of the Midland Great Western refused to strike.

The strike on the Great Southern and Western railroad continues to be the mainstay of the general movement.

BRITISH OPINIONS.

London, Sept. 22.—The overwhelming defeat of Premier Laurier and the Liberal government's policy of reciprocity with the United States at the polls in Canada yesterday came as a surprise to England. It had been expected that the Liberal majority would be decreased, but even the strongest opponents of reciprocity had not so much as suggested such a majority against the Canadian-American agreement as the Conservative leader, Mr. Borden, obtained.

The result generally is welcomed here, as Englishmen had felt that the trade arrangement pressed closer the political relations between the neighbors and a consequent loosening of the Imperial ties.

There was a slight relapse in American securities on the stock exchange this morning, following the news of the Liberal defeat, but prices soon recovered and larger changes were credited to other causes.

The Unionist and tariff reform papers received the news with indignant elation while the government and Radical press rejoiced that the victory was obtained with the assistance of Henri Bourassa, leader of the French Nationalist group of opposition, who left Laurier because of the premier's attachment to the Empire.

RECIPROCITY IN PAPER.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, issued a statement today showing that the defeat in Canada of the reciprocity agreement has expanded the free zone for pulp and paper so as to include all favored nations. His statement follows:

"Canada's rejection of reciprocity raises a question with respect to the favored nation treaties that is unique. Unlike the items contained in section 1 of the reciprocity bill, the paper and pulp clause, which was section 2, abolished the duty on Canadian pulp and paper subject only to a Canadian precedent that the pulp and paper must be made from unrestricted woods and that the tariff on those articles is automatically abolished under like conditions.

"Treasury department officials say no similar case has ever arisen in this country."

"The importers of pulp and paper from Germany, Norway and Sweden claim that under the favored nation treaty products of these countries are entitled to the treatment that Canada obtains when the pulp and paper are made from unrestricted woods, and that the tariff on those articles is automatically abolished under like conditions."

"The Treasury department officials say no similar case has ever arisen in this country."

BODY OF MISSING CASHIER FOUND

Remains of Richard Reilly Discovered on Shore of Kootenay Lake

Nelson, Sept. 22.—While strolling along the shore of the West Arm of Kootenay lake, four miles from Nelson, Mr. W. D. Morgan, a tourist, stumbled upon the dead body, supposed to be that of Richard Reilly, cashier of the local office of the Dominion Express Company, who disappeared the beginning of the present month. The body was much decomposed, but J. Labadie, manager of the Express Company, identified it by the peculiarity of the teeth.

Reilly's canoe and clothes were found on the shore of Kootenay lake Sept. 2. As he was alone and had the combination of the company's safe, some days passed before the safe could be opened, and it was then found that there was a shortage of nine hundred dollars. As the point where the canoe was found was near where the trains stop on their way to Spokane, some color was given to the supposition that Reilly had absconded, and the office of the Express Company in Vancouver, issued a description of Reilly to the police, stating that he had absconded, and offering a hundred dollars reward for his apprehension.

The finding of his body only partially solves the mystery, as the water at the point where the canoe and clothes were found is shallow, and an unlikely spot either for suicide or accidental drowning. In Reilly's clothes were found a watch and sixty dollars in money, which is believed to go against the theory of foul play. He was unmarried, and a brother lives in Medicine Hat.

STATE WITNESS HAS DISAPPEARED

Prosecution in Dynamite Case Asks New Mexico Officials to Aid in Search

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22.—The sudden departure from Albuquerque, N. M., of an important witness for the state in the coming McNamara trial was reported by wire here yesterday to the prosecution. The New Mexico authorities are requested to investigate his leaving.

The witness is D. K. Dieckman, who was night clerk at the new Baltimore hotel in this city Sept. 29, 1910, 48 hours before the Times explosion, when a man registered there as J. B. Bryce. Dieckman is said by the authorities to have later identified J. B. McNamara as the man who registered as "Bryce." Recently Dieckman left the employ of the hotel management, and has been working for a railroad restaurant system. He has been gradually working his way east, it is said, and reached Albuquerque about three weeks ago. The prosecution had its agents where they could keep in touch with him.

On Monday Dieckman sent a telegram to the authorities here, they said, declaring that emissaries of the defence were trying to "talk with him." He asked what he should do and was told to "leave emissaries alone."

Yesterday the prosecution received word from its agents that Dieckman had departed suddenly for Chicago and the authorities at Albuquerque were requested to investigate.

Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defence, said yesterday that his brother-in-law, B. Hannerstrom, and other representatives of the defence had been sent to see Dieckman to learn what he knew, but declared that no other advances had been made to him.

Darrow said he did not believe Dieckman had been summoned as a witness by the prosecution, and asserted that there would be nothing more gained by the presence of Dieckman in Chicago than in Albuquerque, as the man was out of California in either case and could not be forced to come here, and testify for either the prosecution or the defence.

John L. Harrington, a McNamara attorney, arrested in San Francisco two days ago on the charge of contempt, held a long conference, and announced that they were preparing a statement which they expected to make public after his arraignment, dealing with allegations that the defence had tried to influence witnesses. The affidavit, it was stated, would sustain assertions of the defence that efforts had been made to peddle testimony to it.

The trial of the McNamaras, set for October 11, probably will be held in a large room on the third floor of the new county hall of records, where there are better accommodations than in any of the regular court rooms.

Samuel E. Vermilyea, formerly of Inyo county, has been retained by widows of men who died in the Times disaster to assist in the prosecution of the McNamaras.

REWARD INCREASED

Vancouver, Sept. 22.—The rewards offered by the Bank of Montreal in connection with the recent New Westminster burglary have been increased to $2,000, of which $500 will be paid for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of the robbers, in addition to which 30 per cent. will be paid on all or any part of the money recovered. This on the whole amount stolen would amount to $2,500-odd, being the remainder of the sum offered.

THINKING THEMES

BY DR. FRANK CRANE

Zola, Maupassant, Sudermann, D'Annunzio, Gorki, Tolstoy, and whoever else has written of life as a gloom, a groan, a tragedy and a defeat, are wrong. They are just as wrong now as the hermits and starving anchorites were wrong a thousand years ago. I do not criticize their literary excellence, nor say that they do not contain some truth, but the morbid cast they give upon life is false, as everything sickly is false.

Life is healthy, fecund, full of joys and joys. Every Spring with its burst of bloom and leafage, every child shouting at play in the street, every pair of lovers hand in hand in the moonship, every full-hearted mother among her babies, every hearty old man sitting in the sun, every bird dashing from tree to housetop singing, all these, the hum and flash and fragrance of life's throbbing dynamics, give the lie to crazy sorrow.

It is a lying art that makes death, a moment's pang, stain the white tissue of all one's days. We feel it in sunny Shakespeare, sanest of all lords of letters. Health, and not disease, is the truth.

The "grand, gloomy and peculiar" soul is perilously near a humbug. Please God, I will live my years with my face to the light, meeting the blows of fate with a joke, the contempt of men with a smile, the plague and mystery of the Unknown in my own heart and in the Universe with cheerful faith, and death the best I can when I come to it. For somewhere in the best of Joy is the Truth, and in the first cause of every Sorrow is a Mistake.

Pekin, Sept. 22.—Chao Ech Feng, military commander of Cheng-tu, reports that the insurgents have organized their forces, have artillery and are numerically strong. As fast as one force is disposed of others appear, he says.

It is held here that the commander may be magnifying his victories and ignoring details.

The capture of 2,000 pieces of the rebel ammunition, including cannon, rifles, swords, spears and bayonets, is reported.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in defeat is still the noblest and the greatest figure in the political history of Canada. Time, and that not remote, will magnify his stature in the gallery of Canada's distinguished men.

FORTUNES OF WAR

The defeat of the Laurier government by the adverse vote of the people of Canada yesterday is illustrative of the fortunes of political parties and the uncertainty of all predictions earlier than the counting of the ballots.

In seeking for the exact meaning of the pronouncement of the Canadian electorate, we think it must be admitted that the whole decision at the polls was given on the theory that it was wise to let well enough alone.

The defeat of the members of the late cabinet would seem to warrant the deduction we have made.

When we have added to these considerations the fact that enormous sums of money were spent by the corporations and that the whole strength of the protected interests were thrown into the conflict for the defeat of the Laurier government, it is less surprising that the opposition—with its strongly protective proclivities—gained the ascendancy.

Speaking in broad and general terms the Dominion has turned back the hands on the dial of progress several years. With every civilized country striving for reduced tariffs and the generally world-wide revolt against every form of high protection, it is somewhat disconcerting to see the people of Canada voting into power a party pledged to maintain high tariff walls against foreign trade.

Certainly the country has refused to seize upon an opportunity afforded, not without much cost in wise negotiation and statesmanship, for the magnificent improvement of its geographical property. That it will pay the price of its mistake we doubt not and we call to witness the trend of the powerful influences at work in the systems of political economy of every civilized nation.

So far as the province of British Columbia is concerned, we are left without any adequate means of measuring the political strength of the two parties. Had the Conservative victory been less complete in other parts of the Dominion we could have had some unmistakable indication of the strength and influence of the McBride machine in this province.

So far as the Times is concerned, in its conduct of the local campaign it has nothing to regret, apologize for, recall or wish it had to do over again.

BARNARD'S PLEDGES

I pledge myself to make a standing fight on every opportunity which presents itself for the construction of all ships to be stationed on the Pacific Coast at British Columbia shipyards.

The fact that higher wages are paid on the Pacific Coast than on the Atlantic will not deter me from making a strong fight against the construction of all the ships for the new Dominion navy on the Atlantic Coast.

I shall urge that this fishery protection patrol be increased by one or more fishery protection cruisers of a thoroughly up-to-date character, and of a speed of not less than sixteen knots.

I shall oppose with all my power any effort which might be made to do away with the 500 head tax on Chinese coming into Canada.

I shall oppose by every means in my power any relaxation of the Immigration Laws.

In the matter of railway construction in British Columbia I will urge that the Dominion Government shall honor all legitimate undertakings which make for the benefit and prosperity of the people of this province and of the Dominion as a whole.

STOLYPIN'S ASSASSINATION

The murderous assault upon Premier Stolypin, the grand old man of Russia, a week ago to-day, which resulted in his death, adds another to the list of outbreaks of hostility to governments and personalized authority in Russia.

Premier Stolypin was one of the most notable men in the later political affairs of Russia, and this is equally true of his mastery of domestic affairs as his management of the foreign relations of the great power.

THE COMFORT OF HOME

Depends largely on warmth. No house can be cheerful unless it is well heated. No house can be well heated unless good fuel is used.

hand, and the revolutionary elements in the popular assemblies on the other hand. These eternally antagonistic interests were impossible of reconciliation, yet Stolypin held a middle course and saved the situation repeatedly by his courage and firmness.

There is always a fly in the pot of ointment. Duncan Ross is M. P. for Comox-Atlin.

The Mexican Herald says: "When a new administration is well settled in office in Mexico we do not believe there will be opposition to an invitation to General Diaz to return to Mexico to end his days in his own country if he so desire."

First, in the work of policing the seas, two areas are assigned to Canada, and accepted on her behalf, one on the Atlantic and the other on the Pacific, both in strict conformity with her geographical position and in the zone of her natural interests.

Second, the Canadian naval service is to be, beyond all cavil or dispute, "exclusively under the control" of the Canadian government, parliament and people.

Third, the ships will fly the Canadian flag.

Fourth, officers of the fleet will rank equally with officers of the British navy.

The provision that, once sent to engage in war, the Canadian ships shall be subject to the single control of the British Admiralty, which must and should in the nature of things control, is wholly consistent with these important and, in some quarters, unbelievable recognitions of Canadian nationality.

To what new purposes—many of them—the Dominion will have to direct the expenditure of energy and money is shown in the pledges to which Mr. Borden committed himself and his party before he more than dreamed of accession to power.

The Conservatives are likely within a short time to give their attention to the revision of the Canadian tariff, which Mr. Borden favors, and which Mr. McBride says should result in "raising the tariff still higher."

Mr. Borden will soon have some nuts to crack. The new premier also will have to deal with tenders for an eight million dollar harbor work and drydock at St. John, to form the outlet for the National Trans-continental railway, to be completed within a few years.

This Mr. Borden and his Conservative followers have denounced as an imprudent undertaking. Mr. Borden promised, if elected, to increase government ownership of public utilities, such as railways, telegraphs and telephones, to aid the west in the establishment of terminal elevators under government supervision, to promote construction of the Hudson Bay

THE HOUSE and the Home

It has been well said that there are plenty of houses but not enough homes. Most anyone can own a house of some kind or other, but for that house to be a "Home" in the fullest and best sense of the word it must be beautiful, within and without, artistic in its arrangement, and rich in its design. This does not of necessity imply extravagance or expense. The smallest house if properly designed may have the beauty and simple grandeur which a palace may lack. Everything depends upon the genius of the architect. If the plans for the house are conveniently drawn conforming to the essential principles of architectural excellence, they will please the eye, and prove a perennial source of delight. Here in this office is an exhibition of sketches, plans and photographs which have been highly approved by home-seekers and the intelligent people generally. You are cordially invited to examine them.

The opening meeting of the Victoria Amateur Dramatic Club, of which Lieut. Governor Patterson is president, will be held this afternoon at five o'clock in the Balmoral Hotel. Officers for the coming season will be elected, and a programme of work drawn up. It is intended to hold the first public production in the Victoria theatre before Christmas. Anyone desiring to join the club should communicate with the honorary secretary, Miss Agnes MacKay, Carberry Gardens. Only a few vacancies are likely to occur in the acting membership. Non-acting members get season tickets for all performances of the club.

"THE TOYS AWAKE"
This pretty spectacle and musical play will be produced in the Victoria theatre Oct. 1, by an entirely local cast of about two hundred, and it is one judge from the many flattering reports from cities where the play has been given, there is certainly a rich treat in store for Victoria people on the night when the Fairy Queen and her attendant fairies awaken the Toys.

The play was given in Berlin, Ont., for the benefit of the Children's Aid, and the Record has among other things the following concerning the play:
"The local younger people scored a big success last evening in their performance 'The Toys Awake.' The play received an unqualified success, and will rank with the best amateur productions witnessed in the Twin Cities. It far surpassed the expectations of the audience. The Toys Awake is a real fairy story, interpreted, replete with king, queen, prince, princess and numerous other rolls. It began with radiance and merriment and last evening evoked unstinted applause. There is a laugh in every act—and line which maintains the interest of the audience from the rise of the curtain until the grand finale. The various beautiful costumes worn presented a gorgeous spectacle—a real fairyland."

RICHEST CARGO FROM NORTH THIS SEASON

Steamer Victoria at Seattle With $500,000 of Gold and Big Shipment of Furs

Completing the fastest voyage she has ever made between Nome and Seattle and bringing gold bullion valued at more than half a million dollars, a valuable shipment of Alaska furs and a passenger list of 212, the steamship Victoria, of the Alaska Steamship Co., Capt. John A. O'Brien, arrived in Seattle on Wednesday.

The Victoria sailed from Nome on September 13, and made the voyage from the Far North in seven days 12½ hours. The vessel was favored by fine weather with the exception of one day while near Unimak pass, where she encountered strong head winds and heavy seas. The Victoria was at St. Michael during the recent storm of Nome, when a number of barges and small craft were blown ashore.

The shipment of gold was loaded aboard the vessel at Nome and St. Michael, and is one of the largest of the year. It was sent down from the north in two large strong boxes consigned to the Wells-Fargo Express Co. for shipment to San Francisco. They were nearly 20 tons of fine Alaska furs of various kinds, the greater part of which will be sent east.
Capt. O'Brien stated that the only vessel at Nome when he sailed from the port was the steamer Corwin, which was preparing for a voyage which supplies for the whalers at Point Barrow. Last night the C. P. R. steamer Princess Beatrice, Capt. Locke, left here for Northern British Columbia and the Queen Charlotte Islands ports. She carried a great many passengers and a full cargo of general freight. While in port here the steamer loaded a large amount of supplies for inland points.
The Princess Royal, Capt. Neruots, will sail to-night for Skagway, and Prince Rupert. Many passengers are leaving on her and she will also have a good cargo of freight.

A social will be given by the Ladies Auxiliary of St. Allen's church on Monday, September 25, at eight o'clock in Temperance Hall, Cedar Hill. A good programme of games, guessing contests, etc., has been arranged.

KINEMACOLOR VIEWS

OF THE CORONATION

Pictures to Be Thrown on the Screen at the Victoria Theatre This Evening

At one coronation it is related that a person who claimed the British throne as a descendant of the so-called "Pretender"—or was it the young Pretender himself?—appeared in the crowd and hurled his glove at the monarch. He was hustled away by his friends and the incident was forgotten. If anything like that happened at the coronation now all the circumstances would pass into indelible historic record. Every detail would be shown.

From twenty-four different points did the special machine cameras set up by Charles Urban—the official photographer for the coronation, take his kinemacolor views. Every phase of the greatest pageant since the day of the Field of the Cloth of Gold was secured to be used for all time. Artists may win fame with oil paintings of features of the coronation, but it remained for the Urban Kinemacolor to obtain a record in the exact color of the events a series of such historic pictures as were never seen before.

Future generations may thus see what happened when King George and Queen Mary were crowned, with every flash of jewel, each touch of color, glint of sun on bare bayonet, of shimmering breast-plate, cheering multitude and prancing horses. It is no exaggeration to say that those who enjoy the comforts of a seat in the theatre here and see the projected pictures will see a far more complete view of the great procession and other features of the coronation than could have been possible to those who stood for eight hours in one place to get what they could of a sight obstructed by cordons of police and soldiers six lines deep in places.

The first day there were three processions. One reached the centre of attention at 9:30 a. m., the second, in which were the members of the royal household and royal family came next, and then the grand procession, the central figure in which was the royal coach drawn by cream-colored horses, with the king and queen smiling right and left. In the first procession may be seen a dashing soldier nephew of the Emperor Menelik, the inscrutable face of Prince Tsai Chen, him of the yellow jacket, the husband of the queen of Holland chats with German princes; and there is the "United States representative," Mr. Hammond. At the end of the first procession is the crown prince of Germany with his princess.

Among the members of the royal family in the second procession are seen Princess Patricia, England's beautiful princess; then comes a carriage with the five children of the king and queen, received with cheer upon cheer, which the seventeen-year-old Prince of Wales gravely acknowledged, while the others are as cheerful and happy as larks, eagerly observing the soldiers and the decorations and waving banners.

A prominent figure in the last, or royal procession proper, is General Lord Roberts, who is cheered to the echo. Behind the generals of the army council come twenty-five yeomen of the guard with their halberds, and succeeding in a riot of military were seen the Indian cavalry, first the men with black beards—also smart colonial troopers with rifles resting on hips. More—horse guards, a solitary aide, then the great golden state coach drawn by eight cream-colored ponies.

The cheers before were as whispers now. Their Majesties were easily seen through the plate glass of the gorgeous coach, and both looked well and happy. The queen never looked more charming. Behind the coach rode Lord Kitchener, stern, silent, inscrutable. The guns boomed, the bands played, the bells pealed and all the world knew that the king was being crowned in the Abbey.
Every prominent feature of the first and second days (in which the colorials took such a prominent part) the monarch smiling his acknowledgments to the multitude; the magnificent scene in the Abbey; the great review at Spite-head; all these are brought before the wondering gaze of the spectator. The people ceased to be pictures—they live and breathe and in every truth one seems to have annihilated space and made possible the impossible and he actually present at a pageant which took place some weeks ago, nearly three thousand miles away. It brings the empire closer together and will be seen at the Victoria theatre to-night and for five nights following, showing the first view of the coronation, in real colors as they were on the spot, as taken by royal command by Urban Kinemacolor.

ELECTION NIGHT

STREET SCENES

Great Crowd Throgs Broad Street to Await Returns—Barnard and McBride Speak

The Conservatives of the city of Victoria went out to meet their pleasures last night, and as the swing of the pendulum—as such political conclusions are described in England—was unmistakably moving in their direction all the time they found little difficulty in developing a strain of enthusiasm which was as lasting as it was loud.

The victory of Mr. Barnard in the city awoke them to an incipient sense of what was required of them, and even as they responded to the call the returns from the east and elsewhere, as they were shown from the windows of the Times office and later on the great screen adjacent, stimulated their ardour to the explosive point, and rendered them one mass of seething exuberance.

From a comparatively early hour Broad street was the centre of attraction. There the crowd congregated to await the results from the east and the middle west, and as its dimensions steadily increased—the thoroughfare very soon became impassable. Every now and then, besides issuing the bare returns, the Times displayed on the screen a summary of the situation showing the exact position of the parties to that point, and this enabled the crowd to speculate as to what was going to happen, a possibility which of course interested the interest in waiting upon the "Ninth Floor Results."

Although the utmost enthusiasm was displayed it must be stated also that the greatest order was preserved. Enthusiasm was allowed to spend and exhaust itself in vocal eccentricities, and therefore the dangers which are associated with old country elections, when the issues are keen and the fight close, never threatened the peace by coming into existence.

Late in the evening when the enthusiasm was at its height on account of the assurance which had just been given that the Conservatives would be returned to power G. H. Barnard accompanied by Premier McBride, appeared on the scene. They were immediately surrounded by their supporters and for a moment it appeared as if they would be subjected to the jostling indignity of a "shoulder high" ride through the streets. Wiser counsels prevailed however for all concerned and a "tally-ho" was hastily requisitioned to do the freight work.

From the eminence of the bus the premier delivered a brief speech, in the course of which he thanked his supporters for their efforts on his behalf, and stated that they had placed themselves in line with the rest of the Dominion as in favor of maintaining the British connection—even at the cost of a few potatoes.

When he resumed his seat Premier McBride was vociferously called upon to address the crowd. Rising in the glare of the torchlight the premier of the province expressed his great joy at the result of the elections. As he had predicted, he said, the whole of the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific had spoken in unmistakable terms in favor of empire. If there ever had been any doubt as to the result of the fight it was now past and they were about to enter upon a new era of government; and he would say that the country was certain to prosper and develop even at a greater rate than at present under the Conservative administration, which he believed would be wise, good and fair.

After one or two others had tested the acoustics of the street, and incidentally their lungs, the tally-ho drove off toward the Broad street hall where another short impromptu meeting of thanksgiving was held. It was very late before the streets resumed their normal aspect.

THE SACRED GANGES.

The River Ganges, in India, is famous for two things—its alleged purifying influence on all who bathe in it, and the fact that it is the holiest of rivers. It has been a belief among the Hindus that a dip in the Ganges, particularly at Benares, is a safeguard against the cholera, typhoid fever, and other infectious disease. A recent analytical examination of the river water at Benares has revealed the interesting fact that the Ganges is fairly alive with bacteria antagonistic to the bacilli of cholera and typhoid. The plague-ridden Hindoo who plunges into the river to bathe in it, provides himself with a vast army of useful microbes, which will quickly sweep out of his system the deadly microbes of disease.

SECOND DIVISION
SOCCER TO-MORROW

Wards and Wests at Royal Athletic Park—Oak Bay v. J. B. A. A.

After this week-end the football season in Victoria may be said to be formally opened. To-morrow the second division series commences with two games, one at the Royal Athletic park between the Wards and Wests, and the other at Oak Bay between the J. B. A. A. and the Oak Bay. The former starts at 1.30 and will come in as a preliminary to the lacrosse match while the latter is scheduled to commence at 3.

The second division series is the first of the city leagues to open this season, but in a week or so all three will be in full swing. The seniors commence play September 30 and the juniors at a date to be decided by the Football Association within a few days.

Last season the Wests won the senior championship, the Wards the second division and the High School the junior. This year every team starts out confident of success in its particular division and as all have been training and practicing for some time past the season should open with games of almost a mid-season class.

A glance over the personnel of the teams playing to-morrow shows that both games should be good. The teams follow:

North Ward: Goal, Baines; full-backs, Pike and C. Bishop; halves, G. Bishop, A. McDougal and McGregor; forwards, Muir or Kerley, Swan, F. Sweeney, Geo. McDougal and Fred Kerley.

Victoria West: Goal, Robertson; full-backs, Rolfe and S. Stewart; halves, J. Baker, Ferris, Wade or McKean and T. Winsby; Reserves, Dunaway, Dickson.

Oak Bay: A. McDonald or A. Clark; full-backs, Warnicker and C. McDonald; halves, "Babe" Shanks, Malcolm and E. McDonald; forwards, R. McIntosh, J. Baker, Ferris, Wade or McKean and T. Winsby. Reserves, Dunaway, Dickson.

J. B. A. A.—Goal, Falconer; full-backs, J. Gregg and H. Heath; halves, C. W. Matthews, H. Dilger and H. Skuce; forwards, C. Thomas, McArthur, Middleton, Raich and Totty.

In the Ward-West match either Bob Whyte or Jimmy Pettigrew will referee, while in the Oak Bay J. B. A. A. match Wilson will handle the whistle.

White Russia has 4,000 miles of railroad—there are less than one-third that number of ordinary street roads. Government is planning to build 165,000 miles of highway in next decade.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS OBJECT TO REFEREES

Soccer and Referees' Associations Cannot Come to Terms Regarding Charges

Judging from the present state of affairs it would appear that the football players are going to have trouble with the referees this season. Both the Soccer and the Referees' Associations have made proposals regarding the amount to be paid the official whistle handlers, and each proposal has been rejected with the result that a deadlock now exists.

The referees notified the Soccer Association that they wanted $2.50 a game in both the senior and second divisions. The association replied that it would give $2 for the senior and $1 for second division games. The referees refused to listen to this, but compromised by bringing their charges down to $2 for both divisions. This was turned down by the soccer players, and then the fur began to fly.

The complaint of the Football Association is not against the charge for senior games, but against that for second division games. At the latter it is always hard to collect any money, and although a payment of $2 for a referee is not much, it nevertheless would necessitate the players footing the bill.

themselves. This they are not prepared to do, arguing that they are not going to pay for the privilege of playing football.

The great trouble arises from the fact that the referees will not officiate at senior games unless they get the second division as well. Thus although the seniors are willing to accept the referees' terms, they are unable to do so because the second division players are unwilling.

At the meeting of the Soccer Association held last evening there was some talk of ignoring the Referees' Association altogether and appointing referees from amongst the players, who are not taking part in the games. This plan was followed last night, and Bob Whyte of Jimmy Pettigrew and Wilson were appointed to handle to-morrow's game, but that it will be continued throughout the season is very doubtful.

Very little business was transacted at last evening's meeting, the delegates being unable to resist the tumultuous uproar on the streets and disbanding without so much as setting a date for the next meeting.

MAY DIE FROM INJURIES.
Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22.—A man supposed to be Claude H. Long, one of the important actors in a circus which left Los Angeles Wednesday night, was found unconscious, lying beside the railroad tracks near here last night. His jaw was fractured and his face badly lacerated. On this person was found considerable money and two large diamonds. In his incoherent talk he continually pleaded to be allowed to go on the trapeze for his act. The police believe he fell from the circus train. Surgeons say his injuries may prove fatal.

White Russia has 4,000 miles of railroad—there are less than one-third that number of ordinary street roads. Government is planning to build 165,000 miles of highway in next decade.

NEW LINER NOT FOR CANADIAN SERVICE

Tahiti, Formerly Port Kingston, to Be Placed on San Francisco Run From Antipodes

Although it was at first thought the new Canadian-Australian steamship Port Kingston, which was recently purchased by that company from the Imperial Direct West India Mail Line, would be used in the service between Sydney and this port, advice received here yesterday state that the liner will be placed on the run between Wellington and San Francisco. The vessel has been renamed the Tahiti in order that the company may have all its ships bearing the names derived from the Maori language.

Several years ago the Union Steamship Company established a new service between the Antipodes and San Francisco and used the old boats of the line, which were formerly on this run, having been replaced by the Makura, Maruona and Zealandia. The Korangi and Maori have been maintaining the service, but travel between those places has been found to have increased so rapidly that larger vessels are required. The Tahiti will replace the Maori.

On the arrival of the Port Kingston in Sydney she is to be thoroughly overhauled for her new run. She is only seven years old, and is equipped with all the latest modern conveniences and appliances. With all her boilers working she can maintain a speed of 18 knots for many hours. She is 3842 tons net.

The three steamships now in the Canadian-Australian service will no doubt continue on their schedule until the new liner, now in course of construction, is ready to take up the run. The Zealandia will then be taken off this route and put back on her former run in Australia.

DEMANDED HIGHER PAY

Tacoma Longshoremen, Knowing of Shortage of Men, Tried to Hold Up Company but Got Stung.

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 22.—Sixty-five Seattle stevedores pulled the Pacific Coast Steamship Company out of a hole here when they completed unloading a shipment of cement yesterday morning from the steamer President. The men were hurried from Seattle Wednesday when the company discovered that most of its Tacoma gang had been exhausted by a rush of work the last few days, while a number of longshoremen, union members among those who showed up, seized the occasion to demand extra pay for handling the cement.

The union men notified the company's foreman of their demand but took no further steps. They asked for 50 cents per hour for day work in handling cement and 75 cents an hour for night work, as against the prevailing rate of 40 for day labor on general cargo and 50 cents for night work. When the Seattle gang arrived some of the union men expostulated with them, but the Seattleites went to work and unloaded the cement shipment in record time. The President left Seattle yesterday morning.

The British steamer Queen Amelie of the Australian mail line, left port Wednesday night for Australia via San Francisco with a general cargo. She will call at Auckland, N. Z., and Fremantle on her trip.

EMPRESS OF INDIA HERE AT DAYBREAK

White Liner Arriving From Yokohama To-morrow Morning—City of Puebla in Port

According to wireless reports which have been received here from the west coast stations, the Royal Mail Steamship Empress of India, Capt. Beetham, will reach William Head tomorrow morning at daybreak from Yokohama, Hongkong and other Oriental ports. The steamship has been in communication with the land stations since she was a thousand miles from the shores of Vancouver island. The white liner will come up to the Outer Docks soon afterwards, to land a large number of Oriental passengers, many of whom are returning from a visit to their native land. Included in the cargo of the Empress is nearly a million dollar shipment of silk, which will be rushed from Vancouver by the C. F. R. special to New York. The local freight aboard the India will be discharged at Vancouver and brought across here by one of the ferry steamers.

When the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Awa Maru sails for the Orient next Tuesday she will have among her passengers Viscount Yasuho Uchida, formerly Japanese ambassador at Washington. Viscount Uchida, has been called to Tokyo to occupy the post of minister of foreign affairs in the new cabinet of Premier Saionji. He will be accompanied by Viscountess Uchida. Every berth will be taken on the Awa Maru and she will have a capacity cargo of flour and general merchandise for the Orient.

Early this morning the Pacific Coast steamship City of Puebla, Capt. Hannah, arrived at the Outer Docks from San Francisco. She had a good cargo for this port amounting to 200 tons. Her passenger list was also large and included the following: S. Beck and wife, Mrs. E. Lloyd, M. Braham, Mrs. F. M. Camden, F. W. Dibb and wife, F. O. F. Doherty, R. G. Gannett, Gladys Godolphin, G. LOADING WHALE OIL AND CAGED SALMON

Oanfa Reached Outer Docks to Take on Homeward Bound Cargo—Bellerophon Coming

Returning here to commence loading her homeward bound cargo, the Blue Funnel liner Oanfa, Capt. Lyett, arrived at the Outer Docks yesterday afternoon. A large gang of stevedores immediately commenced work in stowing the large shipments of whale oil and caged salmon into the hold of the big steamship. She will also load considerable general freight at this port.

There are 10,000 cases of salmon and 4,000 barrels of whale oil to be lowered into the hold of the Oanfa while she remains at the Outer Wharf. The shipments are not so large as those taken by the Kosman, the last of the Holt vessels to steam from this port, for Liverpool via the Orient. When the Oanfa gets away from here on her homeward trip she will have every inch of her cargo space utilized by the large shipments of general merchandise which are now being rushed across the Pacific to Oriental ports.

Next of the Blue Funnel liners due to arrive here from Liverpool is the Bellerophon, Capt. Collyer, which left Yokohama a week ago to-morrow. She is not scheduled to arrive until Sept. 30, but will most likely to here about Friday morning. The steamship is bringing a full cargo of freight, including much Old Country merchandise as well as large shipments of Oriental products. Between the Bellerophon and the Protelias there exists a great deal of rivalry regarding the speed of the two ships. The Bellerophon on one of her former trips from Yokohama made the passage slightly under thirteen days but on her last passage from the Orient the other Holt liner came across in twelve days and five hours, about twelve hours faster than her rival. It is expected that the Bellerophon will make an attempt this trip to surpass the Protelias' record.

MASTER ILL SHIP RETURNS

Snohomish Sights Ellis Flying Signals of Distress and Tows Her to Port Angeles.
Flying signals of distress, the schooner Ellis, of Anacortes, bound for San Francisco, was sighted by the United States revenue cutter Snohomish while off Ediz Hook, in the Straits of Juan de Fuca.
The Snohomish went alongside and learned that the schooner's master was ill and the vessel unable to proceed to sea without him. The Ellis turned back while off Cape Flattery and had gone a considerable distance before sighted by the Snohomish. She was towed into Port Angeles, where her master was given medical attention.

RETURNING TO EAST COAST

Steamship Luckenbach to Take Cargo of Barley—Other Seattle News.
Seattle, Wash., Sept. 22.—With the arrival of the steamship J. L. Luckenbach, now bound for this port from Nome and St. Michael, the vessel will be placed in readiness for stevedores around the Horn to New York and the East Coast.

The Luckenbach has been under charter to the Western Alaska Steamship Company, but on her arrival from Alaska ports will be taken in charge by Balfour, Guthrie & Company, who have chartered her for voyages from San Francisco to New York with a cargo of barley.

Bound for Puget Sound, the Norwegian steamer Admiral Borresen is steaming up the coast. The vessel brought a cargo of coal from Newport News to San Francisco and will take a lumber cargo for Australia at Eureka, the Columbia river, and on the Sound.

The British steamship Belle of Spain came up the Sound Wednesday from Victoria and will discharge a shipment of 6,000 tons of nitrate at Duport before coming here. She will load lumber at the Schwager-Nettleton mill.

The little steamer Georgia, which is operated along the Alaska coast from Juneau to Sitka, is on her way to Seattle for a general overhauling.

The Kosmos liner Serak returned to Seattle Wednesday from Everett and finished her cargo at the Schwager-Nettleton mills. The vessel sailed yesterday for the west coast of South America and Hamburg.

The Matson liner Hilonian, shifted to Seattle from Tacoma Wednesday to complete her cargo for the Hawaiian Islands.

The steamship Humboldt, of the Humboldt Steamship Company, southbound from Skagway, arrived at Ketchikan Wednesday night.

WRECKED STEAMER RELIEVED OF GOLD

Salvors Successful in Getting Bullion Out of Ramona's Hold—Little Salmon Saved

Bringing the treasure cargo of the wrecked steamer Ramona, $150,000 in gold, and a part of the ill-fated vessel's salmon cargo, the steamer Humboldt, of the Humboldt Steamship Company, sailed from Ketchikan yesterday. The Humboldt is expected to reach Seattle to-morrow morning. Of the Ramona's $100,000 cases of canned salmon, only 750 were saved.

The Ramona is lying in an exposed position and is breaking up rapidly. Her hose has been swept away and she has broken in two amidships. The steamer will be a total loss.

FISH AS GOOD FOOD.

The consumption of fish as a daily article of food (writes the late Dr. Muskett, in "The Art of Living in Australia") is not nearly so large as it ought to be, if we studied our health. It must be admitted that it is much more expensive than meat and cannot be bought so readily. Then, again, ordinary plain cooks only know how to fry and boil it, so that little variety can be obtained, and even these two methods are often so badly followed as to take away rather than tempt the appetite. Not one cook in a hundred knows how to boil a fish properly. If a little more attention were given to the cooking of fish, instead of being a neglected food, would be a much desired one. It is an invaluable food for people obliged to be indoors a great deal, for those engaged in literary work, for it contains, besides other good things, a large proportion of phosphorus, and this is excellent food for the brain and organs of the chest. In choosing fish, the flesh should be firm and hard; if soft and leaving the mark of the finger if pressed, it must be rejected. It must be thoroughly cooked. It is a matter of taste whether we like well or underdone meat, but underdone fish is most unwholesome, as it is in the most repulsive food that can be offered to the human stomach. Cooking is more judgment required than in the cooking of fish. Fish of all kinds, either boiled, steamed, baked, or fried, is most transparent when raw, but are milky white when cooked sufficiently.

BUSINESS LOTS FOR BUSINESS MEN AT Fort George

The big money in Real estate is made by those who buy business lots at the beginning of a city. Knowing what you do now, if you had the opportunity of buying at prices prevailing a few years ago, you would not hesitate to buy on Hastings or Granville streets, Vancouver; Main street or Portage avenue, Winnipeg; Jasper avenue, Edmonton; or Eighth avenue, Calgary.

You would not be buying at Shaughnessy Heights, Tuxedo Park or any of the outlying additions no matter how high-sounding the name or how many boulevards or parks they might have, notwithstanding the fact that lots in these additions are first class investments—but

Business Lots for Profit

Most people cannot afford to buy business lots in the streets mentioned above at present prices.

It is possible, however, to get in at the starting point of what will be undoubtedly a place of as much importance.

In making an investment in real estate the necessary thing to do is to pick out the most promising of the prospective cities and examine into their possibilities.

What are their natural advantages? After you have looked them all over and considered the good and bad points, then you will find out that—

Fort George has every natural advantage possessed by all the others combined.

One of the prospective cities will be a railroad centre.

Another has coal mines. This one has timber lands.

Another will talk of the fine climate.

That one is the centre of an agricultural district.

Fort William and Port Arthur will talk to you about their water transportation.

Stewart will talk of her mines.

Some other places may have a great water power.

Fort George Has Them All

Don't overlook this point. It means that Fort George has a combination of all the resources possessed by all the other cities of Western Canada (except that she is not an ocean port).

Fort George is the geographical and strategic commercial centre of British Columbia. British Columbia is Canada's largest and richest province.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

RAILROAD WRECKS ON AMERICAN LINES

Public Sentiment Aroused to Demand More Efficient Inspection of Roads

A series of fatal railway-wrecks, following each other at intervals of only a few days, has served to arouse a good deal of feeling in the United States, and the demand for more rigid inspection and more severe punishment for negligent employees and callous officials is finding expression in hundreds of newspapers. The wreck that provoked the outburst of popular indignation was that on the Lehigh Valley Ry. at Manchester, N. Y., a fortnight or so ago. A double-header train of fourteen coaches, bound for New York and Philadelphia, and bearing many Grand Army veterans, jumped the track on a trestle, and some thirty people were killed and twice as many injured. The curious thing about the accident was that the coaches immediately in rear of the engine, and those further behind, remained on the track, while the lighter coaches which had been sandwiched in, were whipped from the middle of the train and shot to the bottom of a forty-foot gulch. It seems reasonable to believe that if these coaches had been as heavily built as the others that escaped injury they would not have left the track.

The immediate cause of the accident was a defective rail, or what is known technically as a "piped" rail. A piped rail is one that contains a hollow space, like the tube of a pipe, and it is said to be a most dangerous defect, because no test now in use will reveal it. To all appearances the rail in question was solid, and so passed inspection. To a layman it would seem that a weight test would reveal the truth, but it may be that even solid rails vary a few ounces to the hundred pounds, and that the piped rail would deceive even the scales. At any rate, practical railroad men declare that they know of no remedy against the chances of such an accident as that at Manchester. A correspondent of the New York Sun declares that the defects in steel rails are due to the changed process of making them. Some years ago they were made by the Bessemer method, but now they are made on the open hearth. This writer asserts that under the present system piped rails and other flaws are much more likely to occur than under the English method.

As far as the railroads are concerned there is one very good reason why they should prefer the open-hearth process. It is cheaper. It may have other disadvantages, too, but as long as it is more economical it will likely commend itself to the rail manufacturer. This matter will be investigated by the New York State Public Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is expected that these bodies will make no mere perfunctory examination and report, since the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission is credited with having said that "one big railroad official locked up would do more to protect and safeguard the travelling public than any number of fines and suits." This remark recalls the often-recommended remedy for railroad-aets—the tying of a railroad director on the pilot of every locomotive. There can be no doubt that the danger to their rolling stock, the suits for loss of life or for injuries, and the undesirable advertising every railroad receives from a wreck are all incentives to railway officials to exercise due caution, even if they are supposed not to be actuated by the feelings of humanity common to their fellows.

It is realized by the public, and is admitted by railroad men, that the craze for saving time is at the bottom, responsible for most of the accidents on American railroads. This demand springs from the passengers, and the railroads that do not yield to it will suffer in their earnings. A great road spends hundreds of thousands of dollars in advertising the saving of an hour in the run from New York to Chicago. It will spend millions in being able to advertise it; and to reward this enterprise the public will hasten to buy tickets by that line. As a matter of fact, the hour that one saves between Chicago and New York is just as apt as not to be frittered away in a barber shop at the end of the journey. Few passengers can make a dollar in that hour; but, instead of trying to reason with the public, the railroads, which are often said to be deaf to public opinion, hasten to gratify the most senseless and the most costly of the demands that are made upon them.

It is a fact that more people are killed on the railroads of the United States through railroad accidents than fell in the war with Spain, and they have not the satisfaction of knowing that they fell in a good cause. Moreover, the ratio of accidents to the traffic does not appear to be decreasing. The idea of strapping a director to the pilot of a locomotive is not a logical one, but it is almost excusable in the face of the failure of justice to hold anyone criminally responsible for what is, in many cases, a more or less criminal negligence. Until the railroads come forward with a better plan their directors may expect to be severely assailed in the newspapers.—Mail and Empire.

ENGLISH REPUBLICANS

They Seem Less Numerous Now Than in the Past.

(Edward Porritt in the Independent.) There never was in the House of Commons or in the constituencies a Republican party in the sense that there are to-day Liberal, Conservative and Labor and Socialist parties. But between the collapse of the Charist movement and the extension of the parliamentary franchise to the working classes in rural England in 1874, there were hundreds of Republican clubs scattered all over the country, and three avowedly Republican weekly newspapers—Reynold's News, the National Reformer and the Republican—were published in London. The movement attained its great prominence between 1870 and 1874. It was then in open sympathy with Mr. St. John Lubbock and so were Joseph Cowen and Auberon Herbert. During the parliamentary recess in 1871, Dilke made speeches up and down the country in favor of a republican form of government; and in the parliamentary session of 1872, he shocked Gladstone and the Whigs and Liberals by moving for returns showing what royalty cost the British taxpayer. Gladstone was premier at that time, and his leader of the House of Commons he opposed Dilke's motion with much vigor and even more heat.

This was the first, and only time in the nineteenth century that Republicanism was discussed in the House of Commons. The discussion was a failure, but it certainly stimulated popular interest, and in 1872 there was a national republican congress at Birmingham. Eighteen hundred Republican clubs are said to have been represented by delegates at this congress, which was the last popular demonstration in favor of the Republican idea. The Republican newspapers survived as such for some years after the Birmingham congress, and Bradlaugh and other Republicans continued to write and lecture in favor of Republicanism. But the lectures gradually lost their vogue, and in 1897—the year of Queen Victoria's second jubilee—one of Bradlaugh's old colleagues in the House of Commons, made the statement that there was not a single Republican club or newspaper in existence. To-day in this year of King George's coronation the subject has not even an academic interest, and as the English are of political discussion an orator speaking from a soap box could not hold the attention of twenty people for five minutes by a speech urging the substitution of a republic for the monarchy.

At least four obvious reasons for the complete disappearance of the Republican idea would suggest themselves to a Forney who was in England to-day. The last two sovereigns—Queen Victoria and King Edward—were immensely popular, and King George, with the aid of Queen Mary, seems likely to be equally so. The English working classes since 1884 have been in possession of the parliamentary vote. A great increase in popular political education has resulted from the elementary education act of 1870, and the extension of the franchise in 1884, and with education and the exercise of the franchise, there has gradually come to the working classes a realization of two important facts. These are that the sovereign—since Queen Victoria's time does not stand in the way of progress toward democracy, or of constitutional changes giving increased power to the people, and the working classes through their votes are able to achieve reforms of more consequence to them than the substitution of a republic for the monarchy.

Better even than Canadiana, whose constitution is more democratic than the English, better, it may almost be said, than Americans, the English people realize what can be done with their constitutional and parliamentary institutions, and it is because the English working people realize how much can be done with existing political machinery—national and municipal—that the question of a republic versus a monarchy has no longer even a debating society interest.

GERMAN SIEGE GUNS

New Type of Remarkable Bomb Under Tests.

Some interesting experiments have recently been carried out by the German military authorities at Döberitz with a new type of siege gun constructed by the firm of Krupp. The new gun is an improvement on an idea much used by the Japanese in the siege of Port Arthur, and is designed to aid the advance of infantry storming an entrenched position.

Military experts in Germany have for a long time been puzzling over the problem of how the long range artillery of an army could render efficient support to its own advancing infantry fight up to the trenches of a fortified position. According to present "siege technique" the artillery of an attacking army has to cease bombarding the enemy's fortifications as soon as the storming infantry gets to close quarters, otherwise the stormers are likely to be shot down by their own guns from the rear. This cessation of the attackers' bombardment enables the besieged to emerge from their entrenchments and pour a devastating fire at close quarters into the ranks of the attacking force, which is thus deprived of the support of its own artillery just at the moment when it most stands in need of it.

The new gun has been devised to overcome this difficulty. It has an extremely narrow, untrifled bore, and is of very light construction, easily capable of being carried by two men, and is intended to be carried in the front lines of the advancing infantry. Its most remarkable feature is its projectile, which consists of a round bomb of great diameter loaded with a very powerful explosive mixture. The bomb is of far greater diameter than the bore of the gun which throws it, and its lower end, which is enlarged to a wad or piston-like form, resting on the gun-charge at the bottom of the barrel.

The bomb itself merely lies on the gun muzzle, quite outside the bore. On being fired, the trailing stick-like tail serves to keep the bomb in its proper direction of flight, and, once detached itself and falls to earth after a certain distance has been covered, leaving the bomb to pursue its course alone. The experiments have shown that a reasonable precision can be obtained with the new missile up to a distance of 300 to 400 yards, and the bomb itself, which, owing to its large capacity, is capable of great destruction, serves not only to prevent the defenders emerging from their cover, but also to make great breaches in their entrenchments or fortifications.

At the same time, experiments have been carried out at Döberitz with a new form of hand grenade, designed to effect the same purpose.—London Standard.

FLYING FOR EVERYONE

Many Popular Long Distance Passenger Trips in England.

Passenger flights in aeroplanes are rapidly increasing in popularity in England, and within the past few weeks the number of aerial journeys booked at Brooklands, Hendon, and other aerodromes has increased to the extent of 100 per cent.

and the increasing skill of airmen have mainly led to the popularity of flying. H. Barber, the inventor and pilot of the Valkyrie monoplanes, whose headquarters are at Hendon, has booked $4,000 worth of passenger flights, and his "fares" require to be taken to all parts of the country.

"The aeroplane flights" booked through our instrumentality are now increasing to an altogether remarkable extent," observed Mr. Phillips, the manager of the aviation department of Messrs. Keith, Prowse & Co., London. "At first our charges for cross-country aerial journeys were at the rate of a guinea a mile. Now, however, in view of the number of flights being made, we are able to reduce the price to half a guinea a mile. Long distance trips by aeroplane are mainly in demand, and we had a fare the other day, for instance, from Brooklands to the Isle of Wight.

"It is becoming quite a fashionable thing, particularly in this hot weather, to motor to Brooklands or Hendon and then enjoy a delightfully cooling cross-country flight. The evening is generally the favorite time for such trips. It is curious how fascinated most people become with flying, for we find the same people coming back time after time to book flights."

The statue erected by the people of Cannes in memory of King Edward has now been completed by M. Pusch. He is represented in yachting costume leaning on a balustrade as if gazing along the Croisette promenade. Below a nymph personifying Cannes is throwing flowers.

COMMERCIAL PEACE MOVEMENT GROWS

Victoria Branch Appoints Delegates to Attend Convention at Vancouver

The executive board of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Peace Industrial Association was held on Wednesday in the Dominion hotel. The president, D. E. Campbell, stated the object of the meeting to be the appointment of delegates to attend a joint meeting of the directors of the Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster branches of the association, to be held in Vancouver on Tuesday, the 3rd day of October, 1911, for the purpose of electing and organizing a district of British Columbia executive board of directors to control and manage the industrial peace movement throughout the entire district, and to take such steps as may seem expedient for the promulgation and spread of the said movement throughout the Dominion of Canada.

P. H. Scullin then reported that amongst other influential gentlemen whom he had interviewed in Victoria were the president and secretary of the board of trade, Mayor Morley and Lieutenant-Governor Paterson, all of whom had entered heartily into the project and promised their personal attendance and support at the forthcoming convention in Vancouver.

Rev. Father O'Brien, of Seattle, who represented Seattle at the Industrial convention held in San Francisco in April last, will also be in attendance at the Vancouver convention and will deliver an address upon the spread and growth of the Industrial Peace movement in the United States.

The following gentlemen were appointed to represent the Victoria branch of the Industrial Peace Association upon the occasion referred to: President, D. E. Campbell; Right Rev. Bishop Macdonald; secretary-treasurer, J. E. Wilson; Rev. Hermon A. Carson; Mr. F. J. Sehl; Mr. W. H. P. Sweeney, secretary.

ROOFS AS BEDROOMS.

"The number of persons who sleep in the open air has considerably multiplied during the last few years," says the London Sanitary Record. "Even in the best-end of London, at some of the institutions, many of the nurses sit upon the tops of the houses, especially where the roofs are flat."

"In the country, where houses are isolated, beds are fixed up in the gardens, where the more venturesome members of a family take their rest. It is useless to call this simply a fad, for the beneficial effects have been so thoroughly tested that it can no longer be looked upon as an experiment."

"At first the movement in favor of outdoor sleeping was favored wholly by patients suffering from incipient tuberculosis, but not half the persons who now practice it have ever been in danger or fear of the great white plague."

"Many take the treatment for nervous disorders, some for delicacy of constitution, and others for pure enjoyment and the invigorating effect of breathing pure oxygen during slumber. But once a beginning is made, few care to relinquish the luxury, and they are even unwilling to submit to close confinement when the winter comes along."

PASSING SHOW

Empress Theatre.
John R. Gordon's farcical comedy, "What Would You Do?" is played at the Empress theatre to full houses with four in the cast this week. Mr. Gordon wrote the skit himself and acts one of the principal parts. The plot is a case of substitution of one man for another, and on this thread is hung an abundance of laugh-making material that makes the playlet popular. Sheck and D'Arville are giving an accomplished variety act with songs, dancing, costume-changing and gymnastics; George De Alma and Ethel Mae are splendid performers on the banjos; Herbert Hodge is the greatest laugh-maker of them all, and Kramer and Ross have many dance steps that please. The Empresscope and the orchestral music are the other numbers of the Empress programme.

Majestic Theatre.
To-day and to-morrow will be shown the usual high class set of pictures. "The Long Skirt," showing how a mother is discouraged because her daughter is of age, and has not assumed any of the mature responsibilities of a young woman, does not assist with the housework and is not more companionable and advanced. "Love and Silence," depicting a couple of chums in love with the same girl. Sometime after the marriage of the young girl to the fortunate youth, a robbery is committed and the unlucky one takes the blame for the deed to shield his chum who is the guilty one. "Red Cloud's Secret," a western picture showing how a clergyman came into possession of a rich mine through the aid of an Indian. "Mr. Peck Goes Calling" and "The Beautiful Voice" are two biograph comedies.

"The House Next Door."
A well-balanced company, with William Y. Mong in the leading role, presented J. Hartley Manners' English comedy, "The House Next Door," last night at the Victoria theatre, but owing to the election of the night, the attendance was not large. The comedy was well worthy of a capacity house and should it ever return here again under different circumstances would draw such.

The story is one of conflict between a rich Jew and an English nobleman, the Jew conquering. The nobleman was played very successfully by Mr. Mong, whose support was of the best. In this comedy Mr. Manners has written an exceedingly bright and pleasing work, treating each character plentifully and successfully.

THE SCIENCE OF BUYING.

To teach girls how to buy, so that when they go marketing at the grocer and baker shops they shall be enabled to get their money's worth in exchange for their money, is a new form of instruction provided in an up-to-date New England college for young women students. This deviation from the ordinary range of study will be generally regarded as a wise extension of the course of collegiate instruction. To understand the science of buying in its application to daily household affairs is not only helpful in the curtailment of unnecessary expense; it also goes far to insure better dietary and sanitary oversight of the domestic establishment. The girl graduate so instructed may embark upon the sea of matrimony far better equipped for safe and prosperous voyaging.

But not all the trading is done at the grocer's or butcher's or baker's. Is there not good reason for pushing further afield in the science of buying? There are other shops where are sold linens, laces, silks, satins and all the endless and bewildering array of needed personal and household stuffs for use and adornment. These shops are daily thronged by women buyers. Should not the girl graduate be better prepared to grapple with this more difficult and more enticing dry goods problem in the art of getting one's money's worth. There is a chance of saving millions of dollars by carrying this idea a little further along.—Bellingham American.

Steel Trust Declared to Be Too Powerful to Yield Without Struggle.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—Representative O. A. Stanley, chairman of the steel investigating committee of the House, is quoted to-day as saying: "The company is too powerful to yield without a struggle to any demand that it dissolve and reorganize. Besides, I do not believe the department of justice is at all sure yet that it can prove that this corporation exists in violation of the Sherman law. It also remains to be seen whether the House committee will bring to light facts which will prove restraint of trade and monopoly. It is my opinion, however, that eventually the steel trust will consent to a voluntary dismemberment."
 Mr. Stanley does not believe that the United States Steel Corporation is seriously considering at this time any plan to follow the example of the International Harvester Company, and offer to conform to the Sherman anti-trust law, in accordance with the department of Justice, without going into court.

AVIATOR'S MISFORTUNES.

James J. Ward Meets With Another Accident.

Hornell, N. Y., Sept. 22.—James J. Ward, the aviator, resumed his flight to the Pacific coast from Addison at 7:15 to-day. After flying five miles some trouble developed in his engine and the machine dropped to the earth, a distance of about 60 feet, near Rathbone, and was badly damaged. Ward escaped serious injury.
 James P. Murphy, manager for J. Ward, announced that Ward had withdrawn from the coast-to-coast record flight, and will fly to the coast near Addison this morning.

LONG COUNTY COURT LIST FOR OCTOBER

Judge Barker Takes Street Riot Appeal by Moses McGregor at Victoria Monday

On the county court list for next month, issued at the registrar's office this morning, there are twenty trials set down. Eleven are set over from last month and nine are new trials. There are a number of judgment summons cases listed in addition.

Monday morning next the county court will hold a double sitting. Judge Lampman hearing the trial of John Day commenced last Monday and adjourned over election for the purpose of allowing Stuart Henderson, counsel for accused, to return to Ashcroft, and for allowing the witnesses for the defence to be gathered.

Judge Barker, of Nanaimo, is to come to Victoria to hear the appeal arising out of the street riots which took place here towards the end of July. The defendant in the action, Moses McGregor, who was convicted, has entered an appeal which is listed for hearing Monday, and it was necessary to get another county court judge to hear it because of Judge Lampman's engagement in the Day trial.

The suit of Pallanteri against Jones, being a claim for damages arising from an automobile accident, which was listed for hearing this morning, has been settled out of court.

The county court list for next month is as follows:
 From Last Month.
 Norris Cafe Co. (Griffin) v. Currie (Higgins).

A GOLFER'S DIET.

The golf authority of the Yorkshire Post tells us how it was that Harry Vardon won the championship. Vardon won, he says, because he trained carefully; and his training was a judicious mixture of golf and diet. Eating and drinking are questions of interest to many who are not golfers just now; so Vardon's regime is worth giving. He without meat, no tea and a good dinner in the evening. Four pipes of tobacco, three pints of liquid including one glass of whisky, or its equivalent, were also allowed. There is evidently good sense in this prescription; it restrains but with moderation; it does not tell a man to live wholly on tomatoes and lettuce leaves.

WANTED DETAILS.

"It was like this," said the "private citizen." "Just as the three burglars crawled in at the kitchen window in the clock struck 1 and—"
 "Excuse me," said the great detective, "but which one of the three did the clock strike?"

For the HOME DRESSMAKER

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE GROWING GIRL

AS SEPTEMBER days wheel around, mother begins to realize that her daughter has fairly sprung up during the summer holidays, and the new outfit for the fall must be planned. For the growing girl—and that implies from 6 to 15 years—Parisian designers have made some attractive frocks and coats. There is a reduction of the change in modes in each one of these, French models, but there is also a conservative exploitation and a sweet simplicity that should characterize all fall's costumes. The frock, at the left, shows a washable dress that mothers are using more and more for school. The fact that a dress can be cleaned and worn again in its freshness is alluring. A long coat keeps the wearer warm to and from her schoolroom. Dark blue linen is used. The kimono blouse has a short, cap-like top stitched on over the sleeve, that is finished with a double-pointed cuff. A collar of striped material is rounded at the back and is squared at the front, being placed out by turned-back flaps of the plain linen. Buttons trim the revers and the cuffs. There is a deep hem on the circular skirt and a fabric buckle fastens the soft girdele at the front. This is an excellent model for serge also. The little 6-year-old girl wears a dress of blue serge trimmed with pearl buttons on the front panel. There is the kimono type of sleeve, with a straight cuff and a line of buttons. Side pleats are inset at the lower part of the frock, extending from a stitched flap that suggests a belt. A frill of lace or fine embroidery heads the low-cut neck. Practical simplicity is surely here. The oldest of our growing girls shows a serge dress in stone gray trimmed with black satin. This latter material is set in at the front in a curved shield over a white hemstitched linen gumpie.

The large collar is stitched and crosses over to one side at the front, from which place the straight fastening drops to the hem. Serge-covered buttons and gray braid give an effective military line. A black girdele and a silver buckle finish the charming dress.

The collar can be of pique, plain tuile or mousseline in white, ecru or gray. A touch of color, say blue or tangerine yellow, might be given in embroidery on the filmy sailor collar.

A child's coat in dark blue cloth is shown, made on one of the newest and most attractive of fall models. Notice the curved "outaway" lines of the lower edge. The rolled collar, is edged with wide braid in black. The cuffs and lower line of the coat are finished with braid. Buttons and loops are of braid also.

Bright blue cloth is trimmed with bands of darker blue cloth; these are used to edge the round top and to define the deep hem. A yoke of ecru lace heads the bodice and the same material is used for undercuffs. The extended shoulder line is emphasized by a line of silver buttons. On the skirt a line is used at the side. There are one-inch pleats over the shoulders, which give fullness and comfort for the young girl. In millinery there are great variety and freedom of choice.

The large felt hat is simply trimmed with a black velvet scarf and loops. Then there is a little bonnet of white felt with a rosette of pleated silk. A modified student's tam-o'-shanter is shown on the central figure. Its crown is of velvet and the straight band of stitched felt. There is a simple flexible quill on the other large model, held at the side by a knob of velvet. Last is a felt bonnet with a velvet crown and a band of fur to match the muff.

Suggestions are here in a delightful combination of style, good taste and practical value. From Paris to America the message comes with hope for mothers who will make and daughters who will wear these frocks.

Our French Fashion Notes

THE monotone costume has enjoyed huge popularity. The all-white dress was a feature of the summer and just now the "tres dernier" is one of ecru or champagne color. Little scarfs of taffeta are edged with short silk fringe and are worn with dark blue or white-and-black striped afternoon gowns. A dark navy blue serge suit for a young girl had a deep square collar and cuffs of coarse pink linen. Some extremely attractive suits of white serge and serge de soie are being shown. The double skirt, opened at the side, is exploited in the majority of cases. White silk fringe is taking the place of silk braid. One of the loveliest afternoon dresses for a debutante was shown by Dreyfus the other day. It was of white mousseline de soie, with a half-inch stripe of gray and a printed design of pink flowers between the stripes. The dress was made over pale blue—you know how the French delight in the blue-and-white combination—and a gray tulle frill or ruching edged the skirt, sleeves and neck. The girdele was of pale-blue silk edged with a tulle ruching. Hand-tucked tulle blouses are worn with white serge dresses and suits. Simple, trimmed only with tulle or net jabots or plissés. Silk suits are still in the front ranks. They have carried out the predictions of the ages, and have worn well and are chic to the extreme. The changeable silk suit is now the thing. A single-rever of lace in place of a jabot is shown on a new model of a hand-embroidered blouse. Silk and mousseline de soie gowns are trimmed with very tiny silk and satin buttons. The other day two smartly dressed women exhibited different types of hats. One was a small chapeau, with an extremely high, pointed crown and a trimming of wired velvet. The other was a large, low shape, with a low, puffed crown of black velvet. The brim was of white silk. Supple silk beaver-hats for fall are shown. They have very little trimming. A lovely evening gown shown by Ney Soeurs was of orange-colored mousseline de soie over white satin. The unusual color touch was in the sash, which was of lavender. Perhaps the designers had inspiration from pansies—who knows? Plissés of lace are placed on the newest afternoon gowns of Paquin. Large pearl buttons are used to trim the white serge dresses and suits that are so much in vogue. They are placed quite flat. Attractive felt hats in supple form are shown to wear with white serge suits. These are trimmed with a narrow ribbon of colored felt, have around the crown bands of ostrich plumes in contrasting colors. ELOISE.

Silk and Lingerie Frocks

LINGERIE frocks are likely to be composed of many materials that do not come under the head of lingerie. One charming model has bands of watered silk in a pale green shade inset on the skirt, bodice and sleeves as trimming, combined with bands of fine hand-run tucks. Lace, of course, was used with good effect on the gown, and tiny silk-covered buttons added an attractive touch. Black satin, forming a girdele, cuffs and a draped tunic, is seen on another Parisian model. Finely embroidered muslin is the foundation of the frock, which is cut on the simplest lines imaginable. The satin, which had an edging of narrow silk fringe, is brought up over the shoulders from the girdele in the back, to extend over the front at the extended waist line. From these falls a soft, scant tunic edged with fringe that is draped up on the left side and held in place with a long flat oblong buckle of satin covered with French knots. Folded-back cuffs finish the half-length sleeves. Sailor collars of satin, with a sash girdele to match, continue to hold their popularity on white lingerie frocks. The collars are usually bordered with a deep hem of contrasting color or a frilled lace edge. The large flat bow fastening the girdele is either of the obi variety or have a loop extending halfway to the shoulders straight up the back and two similar loops below the waist line, one longer than the other, quite in panel effect. The knot joining these loops must be soft, broad and very flat. In combination with any sort of lingerie frock.

The New Note in Skirts

FASHION seems to be on the verge of a more or less pronounced change, yet revolutions in fashions do not come like bolts from the blue; women are led up to them gradually. Even the slightest change of fashion in line and trimming may make a last season's frock look very old indeed if those changes cannot be made directly in the gown itself. The introduction of more fullness in skirts is the latest dictum of the austere fashion. The most inexperienced woman examining those latest models from Paris that have just reached us will notice the change. To be sure, the average frock is straight in line, but here and there one sees the double skirt, the triple skirt, the skirt of tiny frills and this note of fullness becomes more insistent as the season advances. The Rue de la Paix is beginning to bring out new models in which fullness has a decided place. Narrow flounces are seen on the hems of frocks fashioned of chiffons and gauzes. The straight wide hem and the band of satin finishing skirts has claimed the attention of fashionable women for so long a time that a change of this sort immediately calls attention to itself. There will undoubtedly be an effort on the part of the more progressive fashion makers to widen the skirts very perceptibly; but this is not likely to be taken up, at least during the early season. Frills of valenciennes and narrow enough to hang perfectly straight, but give a delightful frou-frou effect without actually widening to any perceptible degree the general lines. A dainty model of nouched silk muslin has a group of lace frills set close to the hem. The bodice is almost entirely of lace, with three overlapping frills of lace forming a rich effect. A sash and girdele of soft peach-pink satin completes this simple costume. Width is also introduced by slashing the skirt on the side from waist to hem and inserting an inverted point of some contrasting material or trimming. Pleats that lap under and only are noticeable when the wearer walks will be another way of obtaining the new line of fullness.

Challoner & Mitchell COMPANY, LIMITED "THE GIFT CENTRE" Jewelers. 1017 Gov't St.

On Wednesday afternoon Mr. Albert Wilson Rowles and Miss Laura Annie Hayward, both of this city, were united in marriage at the Metropolitan Methodist parsonage by Rev. T. E. Holling. The young couple left on the afternoon boat for Seattle, where the honeymoon will be spent.

Mr. Charles J. Gardner, Duncan, and Miss Mary Welsch, Muskoka, Ont., were united in matrimony on Wednesday at noon, by Rev. T. E. Holling. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner left on the afternoon boat for Vancouver and other mainland points. On their return from the honeymoon they will reside at Duncan.
 A distinguished party will arrive at the Empress hotel on Sunday from Vancouver, including the Duke of Sutherland, his eldest son, the Marquis of Stafford, Lord Charles Bessford, M. P., Viscount Castlereagh, M. P., and Lady Castlereagh and Lord Desborough. The Duke of Sutherland has been touring the country since he left Brooks, the estate he recently purchased in Alberta, accompanied by Lord Charles Bessford, the popular admiral, and Lord Desborough, better known as W. H. Grenfell, M. P., who has always been one of the foremost patrons of amateur sport in England. Lord and Lady Castlereagh join the party later in Vancouver, where they arrived yesterday.

The general manager of the Canada Life Assurance Company, Edwin W. Cox, son of Senator Cox, who was in the city yesterday looking over the agencies of this large assurance company, left on the night boat for the Terminal City. He spoke optimistically of the west, and commented on the progress of Victoria since he was here two years ago. The wheat crop in the west would be exceptional, he said, 250,000,000 bushels would be the yield, and the result to the coast cities would be an influx of prosperous farmers in the fall, with money to invest. He pointed out that his company had more than eight millions invested in mortgage loans in the four western provinces, showing their confidence in western Canada. The treasurer of the company, H. L. Watt, accompanied Mr. Cox on his western trip.

THE ADVANCE MAN

Half a Million Lost.
 If Sir Charles Young, the author of "Jim the Penman," and his descendants had protected by copyright this only brain creation of the titled playwright, about half a million of dollars would have been earned by his family to date. It remains for an astute American manager, Wm. A. Brady, to recognize the great dramatic possibilities of this play and revive it with an all-star cast in New York City and to take such legal steps as to protect his re-creation by copyright.
 Ernest Shipman has contracted for this most realistic of all great detective plays for a season of fifteen weeks, and has signed Florence Roberts, Thurlow Bergen and Theodore Roberts to play their New York roles for the tour, which opens at the Savoy theatre, San Francisco, Sunday, August 27, for one week only, which will be the final offering of this great London melodrama, and the possible only appearance of these three noted stars together upon the stage of any one theatre at the same time. Their farewell under these circumstances will prove to be a noted event in the season's theatricals, when they appear here on Monday, Sept. 25, at the Victoria theatre.

The Evening Chit-Chat By Ruth Cameron

Time, they say, is the greatest physician in the world for the sickness of grief.
 But there is another healer whose power to heal not only heart but mental sickness, it seems to me, is not half realized.
 "That healer is 'change'—change of scene, change of the objects of your vision, change in every way possible.
 I know a girl who was made a complete nervous wreck when her lover deserted her to marry another on her wedding eve.
 Everything about the house reminded her of him, and the preparations they had all been making for months for the wedding so the doctor advised that she go away, or that the whole family move with her to some other locality. Neither of these things was practicable and for a time it seemed as if she would lose her reason. Finally, her mother conceived the idea that if they could not change from the house they might change the house. She persuaded her daughter to go away for a week, and during her absence, papered the living room. In spite of herself, the girl, on her return, was interested in the change, and was gradually persuaded to take an interest in some other similar changes. Before they got through they had papered almost the whole house, and completely changed the arrangement of the furniture. Her interest in the work, and the curative effect of seeing new things which did not so much suggest her unhappy experience, the doctor declares, saved her reason if not her life.
 One of the most terrible things I ever knew of, was that of a couple who lost their two grown sons—the only boys in the family—in a railroad accident. They found it absolutely impossible to endure the continual reminder of the old house and after a year or two built a new home in a different part of the town. So one who saw them absolutely crushed and despondent, was surprised to find them in the old home and gradually beginning to take an interest in life again in the new, can doubt for a moment but that the change prolonged their lives ten years.
 Of course there are big changes—changes that cost much money, changes that are not within the reach of everyone, no matter how great the need.
 But even little changes often help much.
 A woman who has been ill so much that the aspect of her chamber has grown hateful to her showed me the other day that she had moved her bed into a different position. "And you don't know how I enjoy it," she said. "It just makes it seem like a completely different place. I don't mind lying abed now half so much as I used to."
 I remember myself a night when after such a sleepless night of pain that I fairly dreaded to enter my chamber. I tried the expedient of sleeping in a room in another part of the house, and had my first good sleep for a week.

 The power of association to keep the shadow of grief or unhappiness or pain upon us is greater than most of us realize.
 Break the chains of sameness and you will often break the chains of sorrow and suffering.
 And besides its power to prolong pain, I believe that monotony of scene and thought is dangerous in itself.
 Ruts cause more nerves than anything else on earth.
 You are dull or nervous or fretful or tired or languid, and you fancy it is rest you need, but half the time it's just change.
 Go out and see something or someone new; bring something or someone new into your home; and something new to think about, and I promise—well, perhaps not a cure, but at least an alleviation.

TELLS OF INVENTION OF CINEMATOGRAPH

Accident to Camera Led to Perfecting of Modern Aid Science

Some interesting data about the invention of the cinematograph and the moving picture industry are presented in the Moving Picture News by Robert Grau. The inventor of the device is said to have been Eadweard Muybridge, although there may have been others who did what Muybridge accomplished without realizing that they were inventing anything. Muybridge was employed by Governor Stanford, of California, the owner of the famous Palo Alto horse ranch, to take photographs of some of his trotters. The Governor realized that the eye was frequently deceived in its attempt to appraise the gait of a horse at racing speed and he desired to have every movement photographed so that he could study the record at leisure. Muybridge hit on the scheme of setting up a long line of cameras beside the training track. From each camera a thread was run across the track at about the height of the horse's knee.

As the trotter passed each camera it broke the string and was photographed. In the course of the tenth of a mile lined with the cameras several hundred pictures were taken, each showing the horse in a different position. By setting the pictures together, like the pages of a book, and riffling the edges with the thumb, the horse was seen in motion. Thus was the first moving picture made, and its subject was Occident, one of Governor Stanford's favorite trotters. Muybridge realized that he had hit on something valuable, if the idea could be worked out. So he went to England and associated himself with half a dozen photographers and mechanics. The result was the invention of the first moving picture camera. That was in 1885. The next year some of the cameras were sent to the United States, and by 1887 a hundred other inventors were hard at work trying to patent improvements on the Muybridge machine.

One of these inventions was the Latham Eidoloscope, which was owned by the Edison company. In 1892 the biograph was invented by Herman Casler, of Canastota, N. Y. At the Chicago-World's Fair several moving picture machines were shown, but nobody realized that they were destined to be great money-makers. They were regarded as toys, and it was some years later before they were taken up by theatrical managers as features of their repertoires. In those early days the Edison and biograph companies had a monopoly of the business and made fortunes out of the theatres. Each believed, however, that there was room only for one in the field, and they were constantly locked in litigation. In the meantime, the public appetite for the pictures was growing enormously, and the vaudeville managers encouraged others to go into the business of manufacturing films. In 1896 Seltz and Spoor started their plant in Chicago, and entered into active competition with the Edison biograph companies.

The next important epoch in the history of the business was in 1904, when the American market was invaded by a number of European firms looking for business, and for two years there was the liveliest kind of war among the manufacturers. Then peace was declared, and the Moving Picture Trust was formed. This organization controlled the business until its growing objections forced a number of independent manufacturers into the lists again and there was another war. Finally, the independents merged their interests and became a trust of their own. To-day, the whole business, as far as the American continent is concerned, is in the hands of the Motion Picture Patents Company and the International Producing Company. The dominant partner in the former is Thomas Edison, whose royalties amount to $500,000 a year. According to Mr. Grau, Edison has made more out of the moving picture business than anyone else. Fewer fortunes than one would suppose have been amassed through moving pictures, and they were nearly all made by the early manufacturers who were associated with Edison.

Vigorous at 83

Thanks to the stimulating tonic effect of a pure medicinal whiskey

It is most gratifying to receive such letters as one here reproduced from Mr. L. F. Andrews, who is eighty-three years of age and still a hale, hearty man, full of vigor and in possession of all his faculties. "Allow me to say that I have been using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for some time as a tonic stimulant and relief to the exhaustion and debility consequent of my age (83) and find it palatable, satisfactory in therapeutic effect and free from the injurious by-products found in most, if not all other whiskeys. I must say it is gratifying to obtain a preparation reliable and conforming to the declaration of its purity attached to each bottle." L. F. Andrews, 834 W. 5th St., Des Moines, Ia.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

Many men and women who have passed the fourscore mark tell the same story as Mr. Andrews about what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done toward renewing their youth and keeping them vigorous, hale and hearty and in possession of all their faculties. As a leading doctor says, the secret of the whole thing is that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, if taken as prescribed, assists in driving out all disease germs, invigorates the brain, enriches the blood, quickens the circulation, brings restful sleep and prevents decay and old age.

All liquor dealers, or direct from a large bottle, Medical Book Store, and doctor's advice sent free on request. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y. Pither & Leiser, Distributors, Victoria and Vancouver.

tures, and they were nearly all made by the early manufacturers who were associated with Edison.

Mr. Grau doubts, too, if the owners of moving picture theatres are making fortunes to-day. One man named Loney, who is credited with having accumulated great wealth in the course of five years in the theatrical business, says that his biggest profits did not come until he began to run regular vaudeville features on his programme. The writer thinks that the manufactures are now threatened with serious loss through the competition of the Kinemacolor Company, whose films are expected to prove far superior to all previous efforts, and put some of the older manufacturers out of business.

SMOKE AS WASTE

Important Contribution to Science by Sir Wm. Ramsay.

"Smoke is evidence of waste." This important statement, made by Sir William Ramsay in his address to the British Association of Science at Portsmouth, has served to rouse once again an interest in a subject which every city dweller has at heart but upon which very little definite action has been taken.

If the data of scientists are to be relied upon, twice as much coal is used to-day on the average in factory fires and no less than six times as much in domestic fires as is theoretically required for the production of the effects obtained. Well enough Mr. Ramsay insists that "we are utterly wasteful in our consumption of fuel in domestic fires." The emission of smoke from factories has been the subject of parliamentary inquiries on several occasions, and legislation has been instituted from time to time with a view to minimizing the loss of the inviolable interest in the Public Health Act of 1875, followed by local acts in the large provincial cities, also served as a check, but the private consumer has been treated very lightly. Smoke production has been treated as merely a public inconvenience, and not as an extravagance.

But now, perhaps, with the vision of a coalless country before us, some fresh stimulus may be found for agitation. We can hardly expect further aid from legislation at this moment, for the strain of parliamentary business is already unreasonably severe. A deputation that visited the president of the local government board upon this question last year merely secured Mr. Burns' promise to "take counsel with the officers of the board." There was no definite pledge.

The matter should, therefore, be presented to the public from the common-sense point of view. By this means a double result may be achieved. Less waste of coal means a more satisfactory pecuniary position for the masses and a longer life for our coal-fields. The remedy lies in the use of wastes of scientific construction. Which of these is the most efficient is, of course, a problem which the layman can hardly be expected to solve. There is in existence a society which conducts periodic trials with domestic grates on a scientific basis. This society is known as the Coal Smoke Abatement Society, having as its president Sir W. B. Richmond, B.A., and upon its council eminent men with such varied interests as the Bishop of Winchester, Mr. James Bryce, Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Sir Oliver Lodge, and Sir Charles Cameron, M.D. Three series of trials under expert supervision were conducted in 1902, 1904 and 1906, whilst a still more important series is about to be made in conjunction with other scientific bodies in the promotion of a public demonstration known as the International Smoke Abatement Exhibition.

The Agricultural hall, London, has been engaged for this purpose, from May 6 to May 15, 1912, and the governing body includes, besides many of our principal scientists and engineers, the Lord Mayors of Birmingham, Bradford, Cardiff, Liverpool, Manchester and York, and the mayors of Blackburn, Halifax, Huddersfield and Leicester. The scope of the exhibition will be sufficiently wide to cover all appliances directly or indirectly concerned in the abolition or diminution of smoke or dust from chimneys, and in the most perfect combustion of fuel. Conference will also be held to embrace all aspects of the question, and delegates are being invited from all municipalities and societies directly or indirectly interested.

It cannot be pretended that even international exhibitions and conferences will produce the much-desired revolution. We may have the opportunity of studying "the more efficient and economical systems of domestic heating which are used in America and on the Continent," but we shall not convert a prosaic and conservative public, which has grown tolerant toward many nuisances, with the ease that some would pretend to be possible. Sir William Ramsay leaves it "open to argument" whether it might not be wise to hasten the time when smoke is no more by imposing a sixpenny fine for each offence—evidence being provided by instantaneous photographs, his penalty, he adds that "the impossibility of the fine might be delayed until three warnings had been given by the police." But why all this kindness? Smoke prevention was undertaken far more seriously in the Middle Ages, as may be judged from the fact that in 1306 a citizen was tried, condemned, and executed for burning "men color" in the city of London—London Exchange.

FATAL BINDER ACCIDENT

Wm. Smith, a farmer residing on Robert Rutherford's farm, six miles southeast of Hamlet, Man., was killed last Saturday afternoon while running his binder. His non-appearance at the house at dinner time led the hired man to investigate, when he found the lifeless body of his employer near the team and binder. The cause of the death was evidently started off while the deceased was in front of the binder with the result that an arm and a leg were almost severed from the unfortunate man's body, and he had big to death before being found. Deceased was about 55 years of age, unmarried, and leaves relatives in the city of London.

IRISH THEATRE IS TO VISIT THIS COUNTRY Characteristics of Players and the Native Dramas in Their Extensive Repertoire. At last, after much deliberation and long hesitation, the Irish national theatre has taken the resolution. If present plans hold—and the word of Mr. Yeats and Lady Gregory affirms them—the company of the Abbey Theatre will visit the American Continent in the autumn and in all probability begin its tour in Boston, writes H. V. Parker to the Boston Transcript, from Dublin. Why it should have so long hesitated on the venture it is hard to see. Though its little house in Dublin is its seat and abode, almost every year since it has been established it has paid visits to other Irish and to English cities. London has seen the Abbey players and the "Abbey" plays in many a summer. Each spring Manchester, the most intelligent city theatrically in the British Isles, has its pleasure of them. The Scottish cities, like Edinburgh and Glasgow, have seen and applauded, and the university towns, like Oxford and Cambridge, have been most responsive of all. When such varied public receive with equal kindness the plays of Synge and Yeats and Lady Gregory and the fashion in which the Irish players act them, no great faith seems necessary to believe that a sufficient public in American and Canadian capitals will be as well disposed toward them. The wonder, rather, is that the directors of the Irish Theatre did not cross the Atlantic years ago.

A prudent consideration has in the past stayed Mr. Yeats and Lady Gregory, while now another prudent consideration counsels them to the journey and the trials. A few years ago, at a hint from Mr. Harman, Frohman brought to New York and to Chicago two or three actors who had seceded from the company of the Abbey Theatre. Two or three of its shortest plays were available for them. With his usual discrimination, Mr. Frohman hitched the plays to a common denominator, an "American version" of a "Parisian" farce. The two elements in this "mixed bill" and the different public for them refused altogether to coalesce. The public—it was not large—that found pleasure in the cheap foolishness of the farce were "bored stiff" in the vernacular of Forty-Second Street, by the Irish plays and players. The public—perhaps still smaller—that they might have pleased was scarcely aware that they provided the "curtain-raisers" to the farce. This venture of the "Fays" as they were named, proved altogether a failure, and the Abbey Theatre, meditating a venture of its own, reflected warily. Now, however, it has outlived these forebodings and its own situation in its treasury, and with its public encourages the projected tour. The public of the Abbey Theatre is numerically small—strongest in the cheaper places, weakest in the dearer. It must repeat itself many times through the weeks that the theatre is open in Dublin. So repeating itself, it has been somewhat to itself the new Irish drama, and especially the pieces by Synge, Yeats and Lady Gregory that excel the rest. For the time, the Abbey Theatre suffers a little from a public too familiar with it and all its works and disposed withal to find the second generation of Irish playwrights less interesting and impressive than the first. Furthermore, the Irish National Theatre needs the revenue that it might gain by a fairly prosperous American tour. Thanks to the confirmed supporters, it can go forward but not with as free and as long a stride as it rightly wishes to do. Now in the view that prevails in Ireland no less than in the length and breadth of England and Scotland, there is always money to be made in America—or the chance of making it.

Presumably Mr. Yeats and Lady Gregory will attend the company in its journey and presumably, it will bring its full repertoire or nearly its full repertoire of plays. Now, the Abbey Theatre sets most of its pieces very directly to the stage—some what indeed in its scenery is scanty, as such things are in these days, and its costume. Hence, it need not limit its repertory to the number of baggage cars, as the American press agents like to brag, in which it can afford to transport its impedimenta. They would not fill a large space in one even car. These, we may expect to see the plays of Synge, a play that have long stood in the repertory: "The Playboy of the Western World," "Riders to the Sea," "The Shadow of the Glen," summarily attempted and as summarily abandoned by Mrs. Fiske last autumn, and "The Well of the Saints." These plays, as everyone knows who has followed the doings of the Irish National Theatre, or who has read them on the printed page, are among the masterpieces not only of contemporary British drama, but of the whole contemporary European stage. "The Well of the Saints" is a tragedy of our time, beside which even "Cyrano" seems a pompous and artificial sham. "Riders to the Sea" is a peasant tragedy and a tragedy of the sea—the eternal temptress and the eternal enemy of the fisherman who live by and with it—a tragedy of searching power and of lovely, and whither at the moment they are bending. The high sensitiveness of the acting at its best is one of the gifts of the histrionic gods to these Irish players for which the Celtic temperament waits open-handed. And they are masters of the subtleties, the graphic quality of the tones. Though the Irish players sometimes speak a dialect as in "The Playboy," that is difficult to the unaccustomed ears of another race, their speech still keeps its varied music, it is still, being so, a language of emotion. In all things it is a beautiful simplicity, a lambent sensitiveness, a freedom from the conventions that these players have been too honest and too modest to learn. And it ranges wide as far as is the tragedy of "Riders to the Sea," from the comic bewilderments of "Hyacinth Halcyon," as far as is the tragedy of passion and fate that is written in "Deirdre" from the gay fooleries and light caperings of Moliere's "Scapin." Of "local color," or verities of national detail, only the expert in a dozen corners of Ireland may judge. "The Well of the Saints" is a thing in itself, and the essential thing in the theatre, a structured spectator sees, hears, believes, feels, knows even. The Irish Theatre has a just faith to believe that it has restored Ireland to the theatre, made Irish literature alive and blossoming again, caught the breath and spirit of Irish life and traits. Better still for us who are not even of the "Celtic fringe," it has recaptured the evasive and precocious art of acting.

Gerhard Heintzman Player-Piano FLETCHER BROS. 1231 Government Street Telephone 885. is rife that an offensive and defensive alliance with Japan is in preparation—a dual alliance for the extreme Orient. That, however, is almost superfluous, so closely allied are the two enemies today. Meanwhile China is bestirring herself; her movements, says Dr. Dillon, are mercurial, clumsy, uncontrolled—perhaps uncontrollable for the moment. They suggest a mighty monster awakening out of a long sleep, but not yet in a state of full consciousness. The European and American press chronicle marvelous progress there during the past three years—seven-mile strides towards culture and military development. The Russian statesman, it is said, reads these things, believes them and feels alarmed. If China becomes a military power, then Russian aims, that seemed within easy distance of attainment, will fade into the infinite void. And another five years may suffice to mark off the China of the future from the Celestial Empire of the past. Anything that can be accomplished in the way of obtaining guarantees for Chinaman's good behavior in coming years must, therefore, be taken in hand at once. There is no time to lose. In another five years the opportunity may have vanished. Such is the line of reasoning which is commonly attributed to Russia by the European press. Dr. Dillon says he cannot believe it, and it is his impression that they sincerely wish to live in peace with their Mongolian neighbor. The Norwegian army has a highly trained corps of skaters armed with repeating rifles. These men can be manoeuvred on ice with a rapidity equal to that of the best trained cavalry.

RUSSIAN AIMS IN ASIA. Reported Understanding for Alliance With Japan. Dr. Dillon, discussing foreign affairs in the Contemporary Review, states that Russia still keeps her gaze turned Eastwards, uncertain whether to dream or act. Temptation is more potent there than elsewhere, the line of resistance being weaker. There is an attraction about China which fascinates. And it is made stronger by the fact that aggression there may easily appear to a patriotic nation a national form of self-defence, a duty it owes to itself. Moreover, time is short, and whatever is to be done in China must be achieved quickly. It was delay that frustrated all Russia's plans in the Near East and in Persia. And delay may run her prospects in China for all time if it is persisted in. The perception is all the more alluring that Japan and Russia are now virtually allies. And if Japan be with Russia, who can prevail against her? The Russian war minister, General Sukhomlinoff, has accordingly set out for the Far East, desirous of studying the whole question on the spot, especially in its more practical aspects, before coming to a decision on the Russian attitude towards Japan.
